

ERDINGER

Weißbier

ERDINGER Weißbräu from 1886 to 2018

- 1886 The "Weisse Bräuhaus" is founded in Erding.
- 1930 The brewery is bought by the malt factory F.W. Otto.
- 1935 The Managing Director at the time, Franz Brombach, is offered the opportunity to buy the brewery. Annual wheat beer production at the time is around 3,500 hectolitres (hl).
- 1949 Franz Brombach names the brewery ERDINGER Weissbräu.
- 1965 The brewery's current owner Werner Brombach joins his father's 40,000 hectolitre company. His declared intention is to gradually establish and successfully market a nationwide wheat beer brand.
- End of the 60s Werner Brombach is the first brewer to distribute his ERDINGER Weissbier outside the borders of Bavaria – first in Baden-Württemberg, then in North Rhine-Westphalia and then further to the north.
- 1971 Launch of the successful advertising campaign for the ERDINGER Weissbier brand, focusing on its "high quality standards" as a "traditional Bavarian specialty". The new ERDINGER jingle "Des Erdinger Weissbier, des is hoid a Pracht..." becomes a German advertising classic.
- Early 70s Austria and Italy become ERDINGER's first wheat beer export nations. Today, the mid-size private brewery exports its specialties to five continents.
- 1975 Following the death of his father, Werner Brombach takes over the family business. Two years later, output reaches around 225,000 hl and ERDINGER is market leader.

ERDINGER

Weißbier

- 1983 A new brewhouse is constructed on the edge of town – there is no longer enough space at the company’s historic base in the middle of the Old Town. Capacity is now 600,000 hl, but a second building is soon needed to expand capacity further.
- 1989 A new bottling plant, capable of filling 110,000 bottles per hour, and a new computer-controlled warehouse with storage space for 80,000 hl are built and put into operation.
- 1990 ERDINGER passes the magic 1-million hectoliter mark for the first time!
- 1995 The official ERDINGER Fan Club is founded. Today it has over 90,000 members from around 85 countries.
- 2000 The new visitor's center is opened for brewery tours.
- 2001 Repositioning of ERDINGER Non-Alcoholic as an isotonic thirst-quencher for sports enthusiasts. Just five years later, ERDINGER Non-Alcoholic is the market’s number 1 non-alcoholic beer.
- 2008 After two years of construction, the ERDINGER Weissbräuhaus is re-opened. The Brombach family’s faithfully restored base is now home to the brewery’s HQ, a pub and a four-star hotel.
- 2018 With an output of approx. 1.76 million hl (2017) and exports to over 90 countries, ERDINGER is the global market leader and Germany’s largest family-owned wheat beer brewery. For more than 130 years, ERDINGER Weissbräu has stood for cultivated Bavarian wheat beer culture and highest enjoyment.
